AES Corporation

Saying Sul-long Brazil!

AES Corp sells Brazilian utility Sul to CPFL at solid multiple

AES agreed to sell its 100% equity in interest in AES Sul to CPFL Energia S.A. (CPL) for $464Mn USD earlier today with the assumption of $335Mn non-recourse debt for a total enterprise value of ~$800Mn. Based on management's expected $16Mn 2017E net income ($25Mn in pre-tax contribution) the implied P/E is ~29x, notably ahead of expectations. The sale is consistent with AES' ongoing strategy to simplify operations with this single deal representing a significant piece of the ~$1Bn proceeds targeted through 2018E ($250-300Mn/yr). Further, while Sul was clearly 'next on deck', timing had been anticipated in 2017.

What to do with the rest of Brazil? More generation, less utility

The company continues to own a 16% interest in Eletropaulo (~$0.10/sh in SOP value) and we would not be surprised a sell-down of this interest following the Sul transaction. AES has highlighted how reducing Brazilian exposure reduces its regulatory risk and correlation to the Brazilian Bovespa. Further, AES has been clear on its preference for generation assets in Brazil, suggesting the latest sale does not impede a potential re-leveraging of its Brazilian generation subsidiary Tiete to acquire or develop a more diversified non-hydro fleet. This could be a catalyst for a positive EPS revision which has been sought by AES investors of late. Separately we remain constructive on FirstEnergy and the other Ohio utilities regulatory requests for increased compensation for their coal generation assets. AES already embeds ~$0.07/sh uplift at its DPL subsidiary for its comparable petition (reflected in the 12-16% EPS growth guidance).

Valuation: Maintain $11 PT; Nicely accretive asset sale w/ buyback potential

We see this transaction as accretive at the implied 29x 2017E EPS multiple, especially relative to the ~$75Mn we had ascribed in our SOP earlier given restructuring uncertainty (equal to the equity infusion earlier to restructure the subsidiary). Prior to the storms, which drove further restructuring of the sub, we had assumed the segment was worth closer to ~$700Mn net equity value, helping to frame today's sales price. If the transaction is approved by Brazil's regulator ANEEL (~4Q) AES anticipates using proceeds consistent with its capital allocation plan (debt reduction and share repurchase). Given that the transaction is already a deleveraging event, we believe a share repurchase is more likely. This could drive a positive ~$0.05 relative improvement versus negligible/negative EPS expected for the segment as of our latest update. Valuation is based on a sum-of-the-parts analysis.
